This is latest model I have created. This detailed AT-AT from Star Wars has 15 points of articulation and show cases the interior of the machine. It consists of almost 70 parts and can be assembled without glue. The head and body had a M5 metal threaded rod for both alignment and strength.

If you wish to print covers for the sectioned parts head here to download them

Below is a video of me talking about the model and a short time-lapse of the assembly process.

Print instructions

Print all the parts as the import unless you feel you can print then in a better orientation. Some parts may need support. Print at a high resolution for the best results.
